FORUM

By Asami Kawachi

A scene at Visitor's house last Sunday reminded us of the story titled "Mary Osaka, I Love You," by John Fante which appeared in the October issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. The story is of a Filipino boy in love with a nisei girl.

A Filipino husband, recently returned from a cannery job, was visiting his nisei wife--and a tiny baby played between them on the table.

With Fante's story appears an Editor's note with excerpts from a message by the Office of War Information, which reads:

"The Government recognizes that there is a large number of loyal Japanese Americans, and has considered the difficulties they face during this war period...

"The War Relocation Authority in establishing its Relocation Centers has acted for the protection of loyal Japanese Americans. These centers are not internment camps; American citizens in them retain all their rights of voting, access to courts, etc."

At the Visitor's house, we also saw some young Chinese and Mexican boys come to visit their nisei friends.

We realized with a start that school has started in the world outside.

If the Center is less noisy now, it is perhaps due to the absence of laughter coming from girls, elderly women and truck drivers alike, for Santa Anita's No. 1 many left last Sunday for Granada.

Roly-poly Frankie "Costello" Suzukida, with his constant companion Paul Hippo Shibata, did a lot of crazy things which has now become a part of the tradition of Santa Anita.

But they had fun--and they were happy to make other people laugh.

Two Center Students Go East Pace Institute, Union College Goals for Matsuoka, Ozaki

Two more Center students left for schools in the East Monday. Yoji Lewis Matsuoka, who has worked as personnel coordinator in the Center hospital, will attend Pace Institute, New York City, New York. Matsuoka formerly lived at 22-1 Discovery avenue. He entered the Center from Long Beach Union college, Lincoln, Neb., will have another Santa Anita when Kei Hisakazu Ozaki enrolls. Bob Ishikawa left for the same school Sunday. Ozaki, who originally came from San Pedro, lived at 56-42 6th avenue while in the Center.

Adventist

Elder W. C. Loveless, secretary of the Missionary Volunteers society of the Southern California conference of the Seventh Day Adventist church, was the guest speaker at the Seventh Day Adventist service held in the Grandstand Saturday morning.

"The greatest victories are not won in the noise of battle but in the quiet waiting before the Lord," Elder Loveless said.

Buddhist

At the issei Buddhist service, the Rev. Mukushima spoke on "Desire is the cause of suffering."

The Rev. Julius Goldwater spoke to the Young Buddhists and Sunday school on "Buddhist's Way to Enlightenment" and gave them news about the Manzanar young Buddhists.

Catholic

The last Catholic Sunday service, held on the 18th Sunday after Pentecost, was conducted by Father John Swift in the Recreation hall.

His text was taken from the 9th chapter of Matthew. This Saturday's catechism will also be the last conducted in this Center.

Inability to provide priests and nuns was the reason given by the Maryknoll fathers for the discontinuance of services.

More Help Needed For Clean-up Crew

Additional help for the clean-up crew is needed, according to Works division heads. Applicants are requested to report to the Utility office immediately.

KAY MORI, TOM SENO MARRIED MONDAY

Kay Mori and Tomie Seno were married Monday afternoon in Pasadena by the justice of the peace. The couple announced their engagement about a month ago.

CLINIC HOURS

Due to the great reduction in the Center population, the new outpatient clinic hours will be from 2 to 3 p.m. daily.

The waiting line has been greatly reduced, and if patients will cooperate the service can be speeded, Dr. Norman Kobayashi said.

Protestant

The Rev. J.H. Yamazaki, last of the Protestant ministers remaining in the Center, spoke before the issei Federated Protestant congregation Sunday in the Grandstand.

"The Growth of Life" was the sermon topic of Dr. Vernon M. McCombs, superintendent of Latin America Mission of the Methodist church, who addressed the nisei Federated Protestant.

A violin trio of Marian Inamoto, Tomie Yagura and Teddy Kanimina, accompanied by Alice Inamoto, played at both the issei and nisei services.

Holiness

At the Holiness young people's testimonial service Sunday afternoon, testimonials were given by Marion Yamabe, Atsushi Kikuchi, Anna Sakazawa and Hideo Iwanabe.

PACEMAKER Building -- Phone 63

Do you hear that someone is due for a $50 reward--that is, whoever turns in a billfold belonging to John Nakagawa, now in Granda.

John lost it in the last few hectic hours before his vacation--which leads us to realize that now is the time for all good men to be doubly careful of their valuables.

If virtue is not its own reward, we hope that $50 is reward enough for honesty. Are ya listening?

We know that Chris Leahl will be interested in this letter from Bradford Smith of the Office of War Information. Among other things, he writes:

'I trust that Lil Beale will not be allowed to disappear. Certainly he has a career ahead of him. His spirit will surely see him through to better times, and should help many others to do the same.'

We are certainly in accord with this sentiment. Clap, clap

To Dick Honma, who left this morning for Bohrer, we'd like to say thanks for working with us in the last few days when a skeleton crew needed help. Bricky Dick, we found, was just as efficient at handling out copy as he was filling inside straights.

Delirium tremens

And if anyone has a sure-cure for colds that doesn't require any sailing (British spelling). In this country, we spell it with an 'e' but we're contrary this morning because of a nasty cold. Incidentally, the octopus has three peripherals -- what he does with them all, we don't know -- but they are cotepuses, octopodes and octopi. We have known this for a long time but never knew what to do with it till now. It makes the best space filler and with this cold, we can't make the effort to be original--as if we ever were. We wish he would bring it around.

(Made it! Sixty-eight lines and it killed us.

Santa Anita Fire Department

The Santa Anita assembly center fire department, organized by Chief Lewis K. Hof on April 6, started with a nucleus of only six men. But as the Center grew with the induction of new residents, the fire department was increased to a force of 60 men with two platoons of 30 men each.

On June 1, Raymond A. Peterson, former assistant to Chief Hof, succeeded the latter as the new chief. Although handicapped by a lack of proper fire-fighting equipment, a wide vigilance was kept over the Center with fire dispatchers stationed at the Association gate, special details assigned to the cutting room of the Camouflage project, the Grandstand and the warehouse.

EXTENSIVE DAILY ROUTINE

Daily inspections of the nine fire zones in the Center, including the Grandstand, the main track and all the mess halls, were held as a precautionary measure.

Two members of the fire department were stationed on the towers atop the Grandstand keeping a constant vigil from 8 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock at night, working in shifts of four hours each.

The fire tower maintained telephone contact not only with headquarters but also with all the sentry towers surrounding Santa Anita so that any report of fire could be relayed immediately to the station.

All fires in the Center were put out daily by the fire crew before 8 p.m. as a blackout precaution. The Boy Scout campfire and all fires at the dump ground were included in this daily task.

JOCKEY GRANDSTAND FIRE

At 9:15 p.m. on Aug. 24, a fire broke out in the Jockey grandstand at a time when the entire department was having a farewell dinner in honor of the San Diego members who were leaving for Poston, Ariz.

Still attired in their best clothes the boys fought the blaze and succeeded in saving the vegetable-preparation room adjoining the Jockey grandstand. It was not until 2:30 in the morning that they could get back to the station.

Damages were limited to the Jockey grandstand structure and to some of the firemen's new clothes. High praise was given the Center fire department by the administrative officials.

FIRE CREW UNDER WORKS DIVISION

Three thousand noon bomb fire-extinguishers were installed in all the new barracks by the department with proper printed instructions for their use pasted on the walls to facilitate their use.

The fire department is under the Works division headed by Superintendent William R. Towle. Its headquarters is located on Seabiscuit avenue and Gallant Fox lane. Across the street is the barrack with its sleeping quarters, lounging and recreation room.

Of the fire crew, Deputy Chief W. C. Brightwell stated, "We are pleased with the service from the boys in this department. Through their cooperation we have been able to hold the fire loss of this Center down to what it is." -- J. O.
